Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 18 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Another day of showers and sunny spells, possible thunder.

Today:
A familiar mixture of sunny spells and scattered showers, these developing quickly through the morning, some possibly heavy and thundery, with a risk of hail. Similar conditions to recently, but breezy. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Any remaining showers gradually ease through the evening, clearing into the night. Remaining cloudy but largely dry overnight, though showers continue in the south of the country. Feeling chilly. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Wednesday:
Through the morning, showers develop quickly across the country, less frequent than recently, but still possibly heavy and thunderous. Turning largely dry later, and remaining so overnight. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Persistent rain on Thursday arriving from the west, heavy, with strong winds and coastal gales. Staying wet on Friday, winds remaining strong. Further scattered showers and sunny spells on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.